General Emory makes a Demand on McEnery

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—There was a consultation at the State House between the Governor, Lieut. Gov. and other officers of the McEnery Government and a number of prominent citizens in connection with a proposition received from General Emory demanding the retirement of McEnery and the return of public arms to the arsenal. The demand was acceded to. [illegible] An official order dated [illegible] headquarters [illegible] issued at Department of Louisiana, and signed [illegible] Executive Department, Governor [illegible] directing the State [illegible] John McEnery, Governor [illegible] now under arms to be [illegible] retired to their homes.

Governor McEnery's Protest

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—McEnery and Penn in this afternoon's address [illegible] a written protest to General Emory against his proceedings against [illegible] his orders and [illegible] President's proclamation. They take the ground that their Government is the only Government in Louisiana, having been duly elected in 1872 and was [illegible] in 1872, and that the people of the State are loyal to it; that no vestige of the Kellogg usurpation remains, and that there is not and has not been any insurrection against the legal Government; that there are no insurgents to disperse, and that the people of the State are peaceably pursuing their usual vocations. They assert that if they are compelled by the military force of the United States—which they have neither the power nor inclination to resist—to yield the Government and the powers rightfully and in fact vested in them, there is no Government of the State to take their place. They say they accept the [illegible] and of General Emory as an alternative of war on the part of the United States Government against a State exhibiting no hostility to the United States Government, and then proceed to argue the [illegible] of the President's proclamation, [illegible] substantially the statements above made as to the illegality of the Kellogg Government, and the non-existence of an insurrection to be quelled or insurgents to be dispersed, and concluding with a repetition of the assurance that no forcible resistance would be made to the [illegible] force of the United States, but that they [illegible] the State offices and property to the [illegible] of the United States alone.

Order Issued by Gen. Emory

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—The following has just been issued:

HEADQUARTERS NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17, 1874.

John McEnery and D. B. Penn, styling themselves Governor and Lieutenant Governor of the State of Louisiana, having informed the Department Commander of their willingness under the President's proclamation to surrender the State property now in their possession and to disband the forces under their command, Brevet Brig. General J. R. Brooke, Lieutenant Colonel of Infantry, is charged with the duty of taking possession of the arms and the other State property. He will occupy the State House, the Arsenal and other buildings until further orders. He is hereby [illegible] to the command of the city of New Orleans until such time as the State or city Government can be reorganized. The present police force of the city, under charge of Thomas Boylan, will be on duty and be responsible for the good order of the city until regularly relieved. [illegible] of Colonel and Brevet Major General Emory.

Surrender of State Officers by Gov. McEnery

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17—Evening.—At 5 o'clock this evening McEnery formally surrendered the State House and all other State buildings to General Brooke, at the time reading to him a written address, saying he did so as the lawful and acting Governor of the State, in response to a formal demand of Gen. Emory to make such surrender or accept as an alternative the levying of war upon the [illegible] of the State by the military forces of the United States. In transferring to Gen. Brooke the custody of the rights and liberty of the people of Louisiana McEnery expressed the hope and belief that he would give protection to all classes of [illegible] who had been robbed and ruined by [illegible] usurpation,—in conclusion saying: "As a soldier you obey the orders of the [illegible] of the United States, but hope that you will temper [illegible] control with moderation in all things, and [illegible] that integrity of purpose which characterizes all officers of the Army."

Gen. Brooke required from Lieut. Governor Penn a [illegible] of all records which were in the building when they took possession.

McEnery and followers then withdrew, leaving the capitol of Louisiana in possession of military [illegible] of the Federal Government.

At 7 P. M. two companies of the Third Infantry [illegible] down and were quartered in the building. Colonel Thomas Boylan, the McEnery Chief of Police, [illegible] on duty with his force.

The Attorney General Receives Reports of Numerous Outrages

[illegible], Sept. 17.—The Attorney General has received many letters from United States officials [illegible] a terrible state of affairs in Alabama, [illegible], Mississippi and Tennessee. They say there is no safety for colored people. It is believed the White Men's Leagues are wide spread and [illegible] for aggressive action.

A New [illegible] to be Held in Louisiana

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—A special to the Tribune from New Orleans received at a late hour last night reports that Kellogg and McEnery have come to an [illegible] by which a new election shall be held in [illegible] the Government, in the meantime, to devolve upon the President of the State Senate.

Gen. [illegible]'s Latest Instructions.

[illegible], Sept. 18.—There was a special Cabinet meeting this morning and an order was sent through Adjutant General Townsend to General Emory. He is directed to say: "Your acts to this date, so far as they have been reported and received here officially, are approved, except so far as the name Colonel Brooke Commander of the City of New Orleans. It would have been better to have [illegible] use of United States forces in that City and State.

The government existing at the time of the beginning of the [illegible] revolutionary movement must be [illegible] lawful State Government until some other can be legally supplied. Upon the surrender of the [illegible] you will inform Governor Kellogg of the fact, and give him necessary support [illegible] the authority of the State Government. If at the end of five days given in the proclamation of the 15th inst. there still exists armed [illegible] to the authority of the State you will [illegible] a surrender of the insurgents. If the surrender is not quietly submitted to it must be enforced at all hazards, this being an insurrection [illegible] the State Government of Louisiana, and in the suppression of this the Government has been called upon in forms required by the Constitution and laws of Congress thereunder. It is not the province of the United States authorities to make terms with parties engaged in such insurrection.

(Signed) E. D. TOWNSEND."

Latest from New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18.—McEnery and Penn have [illegible] an address to the [illegible] advising an obedience to constituted authorities.

There are no new developments this morning. Gen. Brooke occupies the Executive office. Mayor [illegible] has been in consultation with him relative to establishing a municipal government, and a consultation is now going on at the Custom House between Gov. McEnery and his partisans and Gov. Kellogg and others, looking to a compromise, but [illegible] obstacles present themselves at almost every step. Military occupation until Congress disposes of the question would doubtless be cheerfully acquiesced in by both parties.

The Black Leaguers.

A dispatch to Gov. McEnery from Bayou Sara reports that the town was attacked last night by negroes. The attack was repulsed. Gen. Emory has [illegible] to that point.

The [illegible] People Floodgated with the [illegible] and Filth of Tilton's Nasty Story.

[illegible], Sept. 18.—The Tribune this afternoon [illegible] in an extra Tilton's new statement in full, covering four full pages of that paper. Following is a [illegible] of the main points. [illegible] of the statement consists of quotations and other evidence showing the [illegible] existing between Tilton and Beecher up to the time of Mrs. Tilton's confession [illegible] of Tilton and wife up to [illegible] all of which is offered as a refutation of Tilton's vindictiveness toward [illegible] brutality toward his wife. [illegible] with great particularity the circumstances [illegible] which Mrs. Tilton made her confession [illegible] alleges was given in detail after [illegible] pledge that he would [illegible] nor communicate her revelation as she wanted to [illegible] fact in her own way. The first [illegible] between Beecher and herself she [illegible] October 10, 1868, while Tilton was [illegible] England. The next one was [illegible] Saturday evening while he [illegible] and that these were [illegible] ensuing fall, winter and spring. [illegible] portion of a letter from [illegible] to Mrs. Stanton, dated November 10th, which plainly indicates that Mrs. Tilton confessed [illegible] with Beecher, and also [illegible] Beecher's [illegible]. Here follows a note from Mrs. [illegible] dated September 2d, urging him [illegible] his forthcoming statement to repel as [illegible] the charge of Beecher that Mrs. T. thrust her love on him unsought. Much space is here given [illegible] the falsity of this assumption. Two [illegible] to showing the fierce and passionate [illegible] of Mrs. Morse by quotations from her [illegible] both before and after her discovery [illegible] criminal intimacy with Beecher. The [illegible], he says, was first made by Mrs. [illegible] of her accusing him of a [illegible] friend of Mrs. Tilton when he said to her in Mrs. Tilton's presence that she must either [illegible] respectfully of him and his guests or leave the [illegible], whereupon Mrs. Morse turned fiercely upon her daughter and cried "Elizabeth have you done wrong?" to which receiving no reply, [illegible] left with Mr. Beecher.

Mrs. Tilton left the room, but her mother followed and repeating the question Elizabeth bowed her head in assent. Mrs. Morse [illegible] was made ill by this disclosure and afterward for a short time treated him better and urged him to forgive Elizabeth for the one sin of her life.

WASHINGTON CITY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Treasury Department has telegraphed the Collector of Customs for Sitka District to temporarily employ a vessel to proceed to Kodiak for the purpose of protecting Government property at that place formerly occupied as a military station.

Relieved.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Assistant Surgeon D. L. Huntington is relieved from duty in the Department of Columbia and has been ordered to report to the Commanding General Department of California for duty in addition to his duty as member of the Medical Examining Board now in session in San Francisco.

Richard is the first young man of the tribe who has received an education, and is now fairly on the road of the white man."

THE THIRD TERM

ENDORSED BY THE SOUTH CAROLINA REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

COLUMBIA (S. C.), Sept. 10.—The Republican State Convention to-day passed a resolution in favor of a third term for President Grant, and returning him thanks for sending troops to the rescue of the people. The platform adopted maintains the settlement of the State debt, and advocates the rejection of all claims against which there is a shadow of suspicion. It declares devotion to the principles of general reform, promises to reduce expenses, and advocates the passage of the Civil Rights bill.

OPPOSED BY THE TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Tribune this morning devotes considerable space to publishing opinions of deceased eminent American statesmen upon the third term principle, all being opposed to it for various reasons. Editorially the Tribune comes out strongly against the proposed renomination of Grant by Southern Republicans for a third term.

The McMinnville Reporter of the 18th inst. says: "The unfavorable weather during the past few days has proved a dampener to the farmers' prospects—has caused unpleasant work and numerous delays, has overshadowed many minds with fear, and given rise to a great deal of complaint and despairing speeches; but so far as we have been able to trace out by thorough inquiry there has not been a dollar's worth of damage done yet to the outstanding grain. A statement appeared in one of the dailies that the damage was almost incalculable. This statement was unfounded. We have it from our oldest and best farmers that wheat has only suffered a slight discoloring, which does not hurt it in the least, except perhaps for market, and these cases even are very rare. One man informed us that his wheat had indications of sprouting, which only good weather would save. Since then we have had the best of weather for harvesting. There has been a powerful effort made to secure the outstanding grain this week, and should the weather remain favorable there will be but a small quantity in the fields at the end of the week. In a ride over the country from McMinnville to Dayton we saw but two or three fields of standing grain."

A Mr. Griffith, from near [illegible], Yamhill county, was on his way to the residence of Mr. Malone one evening last week after dark, and when near the "Riverside Farm" gate two men suddenly appeared, one on each side, who certainly acted strangely, to say the least. One of them made for the horses, as if to head off and stop the team, while the other began climbing into the hind end of the wagon. Mr. G. had a young team, which needed but a sign to start them like a flash, and they left the man behind who seemed to be heading them off, and his companion, apparently being lonesome, climbed out of the wagon and Mr. Griffith drove on to Malone's. The house of the latter gentleman is said to have been molested during the night, although nothing of any consequence was carried away.

ETC.

On motion of Mr. STOTT the Sergeant-at-Arms was instructed to furnish Mrs. A. J. Duniway, reporter for the New Northwest, with a seat and desk within the bar.

Mr. GALLOWAY gave notice that on to-morrow he would introduce a motion to amend Rule 8 so that more than one hundred copies of a bill may be printed.

SETTING [illegible] TO THE [illegible]

Mr. CHAMBERS said that a resolution was passed yesterday ordering the printing of five hundred copies of the Governor's message. Since then the message had been printed in full in the newspapers, and as he did not think that five hundred copies would now be necessary he moved that the motion be reconsidered.

Mr. JOHNSON seconded the motion.

The SPEAKER stated that the order for five hundred copies had been sent to the State Printer.

Mr. CHAMBERS said he understood that under the rules a member had a right to move a reconsideration within three days.

Mr. FIDLER moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, which motion prevailed.

NOTICE OF BILLS.

The following notices of bills were given by the members named:

By Mr. DUFUR—To repeal the Act in relation to the traveling and incidental expenses and the compensation of Justices of the Supreme and Circuit Courts.

By Mr. PARTLOW—To regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors, making it a criminal offense to sell and manufacture other than pure liquors, and also providing for a State Inspector of Liquors.

By Mr. STANNARD—Requiring that the bonds of administrators and executors and all other official bonds shall be recorded.

By Mr. DUFUR—To repeal the Act providing for a State Board of Equalization approved Oct. [illegible], 18[illegible].

BILLS READ FIRST TIME.

By Mr. GALLOWAY—H. B. No. 7, to amend the Act regulating the fees of officers, the object being to reduce the present rate by about one third.

Mr. STOTT drew attention to the fact that under the amended rules of the last House, which were the rules under which the present House was acting, no bill, memorial or incidental printing should go to the printer without a direct vote of the House. He therefore moved that one hundred copies of Mr. Galloway's bill be printed.

Mr. FIDLER moved to amend by ordering one hundred copies of all bills read for the first time to-day.

Mr. McCLUNG moved to amend the amendment by ordering one hundred and fifty copies. Mr. McClung's amendment prevailed.

On motion of Mr. REED of Marion, a committee of three was appointed to take the rules of the House into consideration and to report as early as practicable.

The SPEAKER appointed on said committee Messrs. Reed of Marion, Stott and Wright of Union.

The House then adjourned till to-morrow.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE STATE GRANGE

Election of Officers

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SALEM, Sept. 18, 1874.

The following officers of the State Grange were elected yesterday:

Master, Daniel Clark, of Marion; Overseer, William Cyrus, Linn; Lecturer, [illegible] Smith, Walla Walla; Steward, W. M. Shelton, Walla Walla; Chaplain, M. Peterson; Treasurer, B. A. Witzel, Marion; Secretary, John H. Smith, Linn; Gate Keeper, A. W. Mathews, Douglas; Ceres, Mrs. Jane Cyrus, Linn; Pomona, Mrs. M. A. Powers, Linn; Flora, Mrs. L. C. [illegible], Yamhill; Lady Assistant Steward, [illegible] Folsom, Lane.

The installation has not yet taken place.

The different committees are now busy at work. The session is largely attended and harmonious.

SUPREME COURT

TWENTY SIXTH DAY

SEPTEMBER 17, 1874.

Court met pursuant to adjournment.

Present—B. F. Bonham, Chief Justice; P. P. Prim and E. D. Shattuck, Associate Justices.

[illegible], District Attorney of the First Judicial District, vs. Giles Wells et al.; ordered that a mandate do now issue to the Court below in this cause.

John Southwell, respondent, vs. Joseph Beezly, appellant; argument continued until the 18th.

On motion of W. W. Upton, H. Clay Wood was admitted to practice as an attorney of this Court.

Court adjourned until Friday morning.

THE CASE OF MAYOR HAVEMEYER.—Albany, Sept. 14.—Governor Dix has decided the case of Mayor Havemeyer. He condemns in pointed terms the action of the Mayor, but while declaring that the power of removal is only limited by the discretion of the Executive, it should be exercised only in the interest of the public; that there is no imputation of corrupt motive, and that under all the circumstances he deems it proper to decline any further proceedings in the case.

OREGON

Utah apples find a ready market in Montana at high figures.

Utah shipped last season upwards of a million bushels of choice wheat.

Much of the grain on the Siletz has been lost on account of wet weather.

The best quality of wheat is selling at eighty cents per bushel in Salt Lake City.

The Albany Register is disenlarged this week, but promises to come out full fledged again.

It is stated that the office of Inspector at Newport, Yaquina, so lately abolished, will shortly be re-established.

Waite & Myrick's quartz mill is being put up at Connor's creek. This makes the third mill at that place, and the sixth in Baker Co.

Mr. Samuel Case informs the Gazette that all his Modoc and other Indian Department accounts were satisfactorily adjusted while he was at Washington.

The Albany Register says: Wheat still continues to pour into the warehouses, but we hear of no sales, sixty cents being the highest offer we have heard.

On Thursday of last week, Capt. E. W. Wilcox resigned command of the steamer Mollie and now Capt. Peter H. Leabo mans the wheel of the gallant little craft.

Snow covered the tops of the mountains on the west of Powder river valley last Friday morning, and a heavy frost made its appearance in portions of the valley.

Farmers in the Sound country have thus far escaped damage from frost, to the advantage of vegetables. Vegetation has been seriously affected last year before this time of the month.

Needy Grange conferred the Fourth Degree on five ladies and two men at the last meeting. This Grange, located at Needy Postoffice, Clackamas county, is in a flourishing condition.

Dr. G. A. Whitney, of the Siletz Indian Agency, will resign his position as physician on the reservation, on the 1st of October, and Dr. F. M. Carter, of Elk City, will fill the position.

Messrs. R. A. Ross & Co. threshed last Tuesday on Capt. Cochran's place in Clackamas county 1,242 bushels of wheat in seven hours. The thresher that did the work was a vibrator, 28 inch cylinder.

At Newport the other day, a little girl of one of the campers startled the denizens of that burg who were anxiously awaiting the arrival of the schooner Theresa by exclaiming "The schooner is coming! I know it, for I can see the smoke!"

Little Charley Brigham, eldest son of Mart Brigham, of Albany, last Monday was engaged in playing a game of ball at school, and while running fell, the whole weight of the body being thrown upon the left arm, breaking it between the wrist and elbow, in about the same place it was broken some two months ago.

The grounds just below the Magnolia mills, on the east side of the Calapooia river, near Albany, is at present occupied by Capt. S. R. Smith as a shipyard, where he has just completed an elegant new ferry for Mr. Pierce. A portion of the timber is now on the ground and next week Capt. Smith will commence the erection of a steamboat for Mr. Newhouse of Albany.

From a letter received from Canyon City we take the following item: "I have just been over to the Elk creek mines. Cabell's ledge is doing a good business in the way of yielding quartz, but the water is failing so that they only run four stamps, but wash up, or clean as you might say, about $600 per day. Cabell sends twelve tons of rock to San Francisco to-day by teams."

The Record says: On Sept. 7th, 1874, at Yakima City, Wm. M. Shelton, Deputy Master P. of H., organized Yakima Grange, George S. Taylor Master and Nathan C. Goff Secretary, the postoffice address of both Master and Secretary, Yakima City, W. T. Also by the same Deputy, at the house of J. G. Olding, in Kittitas Valley, Kittitas Grange, C. P. Cook, Master, and Ed. Whitson, Secretary; address Ellensburg, W. T.

The Baker City Democrat of the 9th inst. says: "On last Saturday afternoon Mr. J. F. Jackson, a hard working and industrious farmer living one mile above our city, was unloading hay at the stable of Mr. Luther B. [illegible], when coming too near the heels of a horse in the stable, he received a kick which broke several of his upper ribs from his backbone. This is a serious accident in several ways. Mr. Jackson is a poor man, has a large family, and no one about his farm but himself able to perform outdoor labor. This is a case wherein assistance is actually needed."

The Corvallis Gazette says: "In many places between the Summit postoffice and Elk City the Yaquina Bay wagon road is in a very dangerous condition. Around the points of jutting hills a narrow grade has been cut directly over the river, and caving earth has rendered it barely possible for a wagon to pass. In those places a divergence of a few inches from the wagon ruts would plunge both team and vehicle into the river or dash them to pieces on the rocks and trees on the precipitous steeps of the cavernous mountains. Several bridges, also, are in a very dilapidated condition, in some places the breaking of planking having left apertures large enough to let a horse through. The Road Company have not expended a dollar in repairing the road this season, and but for the voluntary expenditure of labor and money by private individuals this highway would now be impassable."

The Register gives particulars of the burning of Mr. Elkins' house and store at Lebanon on the 13th. The fire had made such headway before it was discovered and burned with such fierce rapidity that but little was saved from the building. The dwelling adjoining, occupied by P. Farrell, who had charge of the store, soon caught fire, and although through the efforts of citizens most of the furniture, etc., was saved, the building was burned to the ground. The postoffice, S. H. Claughton postmaster, was kept in the store building and was entirely destroyed; papers, letters, books, stamps, etc., all were burned up, causing a loss to the Postal Department of some $150 or $200, while Mr. Claughton loses as much more. The store room contained goods to the amount of $6,000 or $7,000, probably not over $100 worth of which was saved. There was an insurance on the store building of $800, on the goods $4,000, and on the dwelling $1,200, as we are informed—a total of $6,000. The probable loss over and above the insurance will not be over $[illegible],000.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

Almost enough is said of the message of His Excellency, Governor Grover, to the Legislative Assembly when it is said the document is very long Extended beyond the limits of any similar paper heretofore produced in this State, it still has comparative little in it to condemn or to approve As an exhibit of the condition of the public affairs of the State, it will be useful, so far as it is sufficiently definite and sufficiently accurate to be made the basis of practical action by the Legislature, but when the members seek in it for suggestions, such as will assist them in maturing such legislation as all admit the country needs they will look in vain In this respect the message is a disappointment The Governor appears to have some very general ideas on most of the subjects upon which legislation is needed, and to be favorable to such legislation, but he goes no further into details than all the loose political speakers have gone for the last year or more His recommendations are so general and indefinite as to sound more like the glittering generalities of party platforms than like a well digested State paper Upon some few matters, however the Governor has a specific plan of action marked out, and to these, of course the criticism just passed does not apply

Here are some specimens of the Governor's manner of treating the questions that demand legislative action believing in the principle of local self government, he suggests that the Portland charter be so amended as to secure that object, and yet he is certain the elective system, as it once prevailed here, is not desirable What is deemed desirable we are not told, except that the Mayor should be 'the responsible head of the police system of the city' Towage and pilotage on the Columbia and Wallamet rivers are admitted on all hands to be subjects of great difficulty The Governor says they need attention, but what should be done about them we are not informed. The claim of Clatsop county to a seat in the House of Representatives is a matter of such importance as to receive mention by the Governor The apportionment denying this county a representative was a plain violation of the Constitution To admit the Representative to full and unqualified membership would be another palpable violation of the sacred instrument How are both Scylla and Charybdis to be avoided? Here is the Governor's whole answer 'Justice should be done in the premises' Jack Bunsby could not be more oracular, or less to the point. So passes His Excellency along from subject to subject dismissing most of them with such superficial and noncommittal remarks We have rather taken our examples at random than selected them because they were exceptions. Further specifications would be an unprofitable appropriation of space

Upon one subject in which the people of this part of the State and those east of the mountains are deeply interested the Governor commits himself unequivocally He is opposed to any and all railway subsidies by taxation of the State

We must do his Excellency the credit to say that his message contains much valuable information, and for this it should receive the careful attention of the members of the Legislature They can act wisely and well for the people by possessing themselves of a knowledge of the present state of all public matters and the message affords means of obtaining much of this sort of knowledge conveniently arranged

WE RISE TO EXPLAIN

Honorable J N Dolph, Senator from Multnomah, thinks if he can't whip Bristow, he can make mouths at Bristow's friends He therefore rises to a question of privilege and asks the Senate to protect him against the applause of the outsiders, when Bristow sends him to grass He says the 'discussion'' between him and Senator Bristow on the subject of newspapers was misrepresented in the Oregonian's Salem letter, and has 'soundly berated' us for the aforesaid misrepresentation and declared if the offense should be repeated he would move to deny our Reporter a seat in the Senate Chamber

This requires that we rise to explain We assert that so far as concerns Mr Dolph's part of that discussion (we call it a discussion out of courtesy to Mr Dolph but the fact is it was simply an instantaneous knockdown with Dolph on the under side) our report was correct and when Senator Bristow takes exception to our report of his part we shall meet that charge also. We should like extremely well for Mr Dolph to be specific as to the matter wherein his remarks were misrepresented and we apprehend his motion will end like the skirmish in question, very disastrously to himself, unless he can show the Senate wherein he has been misrepresented

It would be very unpleasant to us to have the Senator from Multnomah drive us out of the Capital And the thought of seeing our scalp, with all that wealth of raven hair which is the pride of our life and the one only ornament of our person dangling from the belt of the Senator from Multnomah, is more than we can bear And then, aside from this personal view of the subject, the proposed action of the Senator might be productive of great inconvenience to the Oregonian itself We must have Senate reports for the benefit of our readers, and it is pleasant to be able to obtain them through a regular reporter in the Chamber But should we be denied that privilege, we shall endeavor to find some other available method "Where there is a will there is a way says the old saw and for the most encouraging example on record of its truthfulness we are indebted to the Senator from Multnomah himself who long ago demonstrated that when one has no horse of his own, a Government mule, though by no means so stylish, will answer every purpose

Finally, we utterly repudiate and discountenance the ungenerous inference which some have drawn that Mr Dolph is actuated in this matter by motives entirely different from those he expresses The fact that he is a nominal stockholder in the Bulletin concern President of its Publishing Company and attorney for Mr Holladay, the owner of the paper does not in our opinion, prove that his action is merely a stroke of business policy, intended to give the Bulletin superior advantages in the Legislative reports On behalf of the Honorable Senator from Multnomah, we indignantly repel the suspicion

AN ATHLETIC CONSUMPTIVE

A little Ring Republican paper published up the valley makes the somewhat remarkable statement that when the Independent State Convention met last spring a majority of the delegates were in favor of selecting candidates from the two old parties tickets instead of making a distinct Independent ticket, but the Oregonian 'made use of all its declining influence' to prevent such a course and succeeded in carrying its point That is, a paper that had lost its influence and was in a state of decline controlled a very large convention composed of delegates from all parts of the State, causing the convention to take a course to which a majority of its members were decidedly opposed That is good!

Then pursuing its gorgeous logic further, the Ring paper asserts that after a few months more in which the small remaining influence of the Oregonian wasted away, leaving nothing but a consumptive wreck of the once powerful journal it had been the Oregonian took the Independent members of the Legislature up in its shrivelled and nerveless hands and kneaded them vigorously, all the while blowing its cold, consumptive breath upon them till it had them so completely under the control of its poor helpless self that they were utterly without wills of their own, when the emaciated and sickly Oregonian, with a single motion of its puny and shrunken arm hurled the entire Independent party headlong into the Democratic camp! How is that!

The Ring paper magnifies our achievements at the expense of its own consistency, and, we must confess, at the expense of truth also, We are constrained to disclaim the exercise of so great powers as the Ring paper would credit us with The Independents of Oregon are above the control of any man or any newspaper Neither have they gone over into the ranks of the Democrats They have not, however been so hidebound as the old parties used to be, but have helped the Democrats to elect some of their candidates for offices in the Legislature and the Republicans to elect some of theirs, and elected some of their own

If the showing the Ring paper makes for the Oregonian is a fair specimen of what a paper can accomplish by losing its influence, wouldn't it be a glorious thing for the Ring papers, if they could only lose their influence? Some of them will surely die before long unless they can find out how to get themselves attacked with consumption.

The Legislature should by no means overlook the subject of preserving the fish of our waters from extermination The Governor is right in calling particular attention to the subject in his message The construction of a fish ladder at the falls of the Wallamet is also worthy of consideration Five thousand dollars expended on such a work would produce greater benefits to the people than all the sixty thousand appropriated two years ago to build wagon roads

Through the politeness of G M Raymond, Esq Secretary of the Washington County Agricultural Society we are in receipt of complimentary invitations to attend the Eighth Annual Fair of the Society, which will be held on the Fair Grounds at Hillsboro Sept 28th 29th and 30th, and October 1st

Several interesting communications on the railway question have been crowded out for two days by the press of Salem matter They will appear as soon as we have room for them

Three times in ten a man who rises to a 'question of privilege' is smarting from the effects of unpleasant truth which somebody has exercised the privilege of telling

The Far West notices with commendatory remarks the magnanimity of the Capitol Commissioners in leaving $10 in the fund of $100 000 placed at their disposal

CITY.

CHOICE PEACHES.—We are in receipt of a box containing several varieties of very choice peaches from the Columbia Valley Nursery, of which Mr Philip Ritz is proprietor. After thorough sampling we pronounce [illegible] fruit of the kind grown on the [illegible] for size and delicacy of flavor Mr Ritz is a pioneer in the fruit culture [illegible] for Eastern Oregon and Southern Washington Territory and his excellence in that line requires no comment Those who test the superb flavor of fruit taken from his nursery must vote him a very successful orchardist. Mr Ritz has one of the largest nurseries north of California. He has grown this season 100 000 locust trees for timber 30 000 peach trees, 20 000 choice grape [illegible] He has also 150,000 fine trees (embracing several varieties of fruit) and 50 000 Osage orange plants This fall he expects to have a number of his finest trees for sale in this city

STATE CAPITOL PICTURE.—Krumbein & Gilbert, the well known architects, have recently completed and have on exhibition at the Secretary of State's office, an elegant colored drawing of the new State Capitol The picture is 42x56 inches in its dimensions, and is a complete model of workmanship in every particular The drawing presents a full view of the front elevation from the base to the dome, every nook and corner being faithfully represented as the building shall appear when completed It required about seven weeks of careful and persistent work to finish the drawing. Four hundred dollars is what the drawing is valued at It is the property of the State and will for years to come, ornament the walls of one of the State offices

CIRCUS PERFORMANCE.—In another column is published the announcement of the San Francisco and Palace Amphitheatre. This troupe and combination is expected to arrive here from the Sound about Monday. The pavilion will be pitched at the corner of Fifth and Morrison streets and the first exhibition given on Tuesday evening The company will remain several days in the city and afford all lovers of that class of amusements an opportunity of witnessing a [illegible] of first-class performances. After exhibiting in Portland, the company will visit the Washington and Linn County Fairs and also the State Fair This circus troupe comes well recommended, and the public will expect to witness a good performance

[illegible] TELFAIR.—This little propeller, which has been lying idle for many long months at [illegible] mill will be taken down to San Francisco placed on the dry dock and thoroughly overhauled She will leave [illegible] evening Capt Mackay, alias "Truthful [illegible]," came up on the [illegible] with a full crew and will assume command of the Telfair on the downward voyage. We are unadvised as to where the company propose to dispatch the steamer when she is repaired.

A BEAUTIFUL PRESENT.—From the Reg[illegible] we learn that Miss Jennie Ciarno, who is well known in Vancouver, [illegible] to the Masonic fraternity of Portland, of a beautifully wrought wax-work emblem of the order, encased in [illegible]. SUDDEN DEATH.

AN OLD CITIZEN OF PORTLAND RUPTURES A BLOOD VESSEL AND INSTANTLY EXPIRES

Capt John C Kingsley an old citizen of Portland, dropped dead about one o clock on Thursday at what is known as Nicolins' Landing on the Columbia He was captain of the steamer Calliope and at the time of his death was at the point mentioned with his boat taking on a load of shingles The Calliope had been several hours at the Landing and receiving freight, during which time Capt Kingsley was assisting the men He never appeared to be in better health About noon he sat down and ate a hearty dinner and soon after rose up and resumed work While assisting one of the deck hands in rolling down the bank a truck load of shingles he was observed to straighten up, and then pitch suddenly forward to the ground His companion dropped the load and went to the rescue He raised Capt Kingsley's head and discovered that life was extinct He only gave a gasp or two and never uttered a word The body was removed to the deck of the boat and every restorative which could be procured was hastily applied but to no avail as no sign of life was manifested Immediately after the sad event the Calliope started for this city with the remains Shortly after death the lips and ears of the deceased turned black and about 3 o clock yesterday morning considerable quantities of blood were discharged from the nose and mouth Coroner J A Wetmore was notified and proceeded forthwith to summon a jury and hold an inquest Dr Wm H Watkins was called and carefully examined the body He gave it as his opinion that death was caused by an aneurism of one of the principal blood vessels of the chest However the exact cause of death could not be determined except by a post mortem examination

After examining a number of witnesses, the jury rendered the following

VERDICT

STATE OF OREGON Multnomah county ss —Inquisition taken on the steamer Calliope lying at the wharf in the city of Portland on the 18th day of September A D 1874 before J A Wetmore Coroner of said county upon viewing the body of John C Kingsley there and there lying dead, upon the oath of six good and lawful men of said county who being duly summoned and sworn to inquire into all the circumstances attending the death of John C Kingsley, and by what causes the same was produced and in what manner and when and where the said John C Kingsley came to his death do say, upon their oaths aforesaid that the said John C Kingsley had no mark of violence upon his body, and that he died by the visitation of God in a natural way and not otherwise

In witness whereof the said Coroner as well as the said jurors have to this inquisition set their hands and seals on the day of the date hereof J A WETMORE Coroner

A H Townsend Foreman Geo L Hibbard E C Woodcock H R Leonard, K Durkheimer Ira Morrell

Deceased has lived in Portland for many years and during his lifetime was ever regarded as a pure minded upright conscientious and honorable man He was a kind husband and father and a good citizen who commanded the respect and confidence of his fellowmen Capt Kingsley came from St Louis to this city At one time he was engaged in the saddlery business under the firm name of Kingsley & Rees For some years past at intervals he was engaged in running steamboats on the upper and lower rivers Until within a few months past, deceased had an interest in a shoe store He disposed of his interest and purchasing the steamer Calliope again embarked in the steamboating business Deceased was a Past Grand Odd Fellow and a member of Samaritan Lodge, according to the rites and ceremonies of which Order the remains will be interred A loving wife and several children survive to mourn the sudden loss of a husband and father Mr Kingsley was aged about 53 years Peace to his memory and rest to his ashes

OREGON ENTERPRISE.

THE OREGON FURNITURE MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S WORKS AND WAREROOMS—AN ENTERPRISE WORTHY THE PATRONAGE OF THE PEOPLE

The time was when our Oregon homes as a general thing were furnished in the simplest manner and none but the wealthy and of these were there but few in the country afforded what would now be considered only comfortable furniture for these moderate circumstances But as our people prospered and the pioneer modes of life began to give way to refinement elegance and luxury our residents [illegible] the factories where the finest goods in the furnishing line were made rendered the fitting up of the dwellings of some of our citizens according to their tastes and means a matter of difficulty if not an impossibility and

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

Have been sent out of Oregon monthly for goods of this character which large outflow of capital thanks to Oregon enterprise is now to be stopped and the money which Eastern and California factories drew from our State is hereafter to be in a great measure disbursed at home to skilled workmen who are turning out work which in point of excellence of finish durability, or elegance is not surpassed by any we care not where made or whence imported

THE COMPANY

Which is doing this work was incorporated under the laws of the State of Oregon about the 1st of April last with a capital of $100 000 in gold coin subdivided into shares of $100 each The incorporators are men who have long been in the business and who thoroughly understand it and know the growing wants of our part of the coast and there is no good idea on why anybody in Oregon, or the adjoining Territories should send East for any article in their line their workmen being as good as any in the world and their facilities complete for turning out any piece of furniture from a plain cradle for the babe of the humble cottager to the most elegant parlor set to adorn the apartments of the wealthiest in the land The machinery in their works is all of the latest improvements and best patterns and is managed by artisans who rank high in their business most of them having come out of similar first class establishments in the Eastern cities or from Europe under special engagement with our Oregon Company

LUMBER YARDS AND DRY HOUSES

The lumber which is stacked in their yard around the factory is of all the different varieties of wood indigenous to our State as ash oak pine fir cedar maple laurel etc as well as walnut mahogany and such as are necessarily imported

The dry houses in connection with the factory building are ample to season the lumber before its use and are entirely heated by steam no fire being used anywhere in the building except the furnace under the boiler When the lumber designed for immediate use has remained in these steam heated dry houses until it is thoroughly seasoned, it is conveyed to the first floor of

THE FACTORY

The building is the large three story brick built for and for some years used as a flouring mill by Mr G W Vaughn It is situated on the riverside of Front between Madison and Main streets the property fronting 100 feet on Front and extending back on Madison to the river about 200 feet all being covered by the factory out houses lumber yards and wharves of the Company

The basement floor of the main building contains the boiler engine of 40 horse power and heavier machinery such as the driving gear turning lathes a donkey engine to be used only in case of fire, and a steam pump attached to a well supplied from the river and also to a cistern in the yard and which is intended to serve as an auxiliary in case of a conflagration

On the first floor are the office of the Superintendent and machines for various purposes as boring, mitering sawing shaping dovetailing grooving tenoning, planing etc Here a large number of workmen are employed taking the rough lumber as it comes from the dry house and giving it the first dressing laying it out for the part it is designed to occupy in the piece of furniture it goes to make up and sawing and fitting it so that it goes up to the second floor ready to be put together On the second floor are also a number of machines of the most precise construction for executing the fine work of which one machine does more than could ten men in the same length of time by hand In this department the pieces of the various articles of furniture moulded, sawed cut and adjusted below are put together neatly the remaining touches with planes saws and knives given them and they sent up by elevator to the third floor where the finest workmen receive them and with skillful hands finish them up ready for the salesroom by various dressings of sand paper oils varnishes etc On this floor is a carver whose specialty is making the ornaments which are attached to the more elegant and elaborate articles of furniture At the time of our visit he was just finishing a carving of beautiful pattern from some kind of hard wood, the design representing an ear of corn a musk melon and some smaller fruits surrounded with leaves and flowers the whole being exceedingly tasteful and pretty

FREEDOM FROM DANGER

By fire is abundantly secured by the ample precaution taken by the company in the arrangement of the factory Besides the fire apparatus heretofore mentioned and enumerated with the other machinery in the basement the Company have erected a large water tank up in the roof of the building to which is attached an iron pipe extending downward to the first floor and to which on each story is [illegible] a hose carefully coiled and hung up and which under any consideration is not to be touched except in case of fire The shutes for shavings and other refuse material all lead down to a bin in the boiler room The glue is heated by steam conveyed to a cylinder prepared for the purpose on the second floor and the heating apparatus for veneering purposes is composed of a coil of steam pipe placed within an air tight compartment upon the same floor With the precaution against fire which the company has used it seems hardly possible that that destroying element can harm their works

STORE AND SALES ROOM

On passing up Front street one cannot but observe on the levee side between Washington and Alder streets the magnificent sign full 100 feet long Oregon Furniture Manufacturing Company extending across the front of the elegant two story brick which contain the finished articles of furniture sent from the factory above described The stores and show and sales rooms used by the company are 100 feet square containing eight rooms 50 by 100 feet On the first floor are the carpets and upholstery goods of which the company keep a very large variety and elegant assortment embracing the very latest styles and patterns Here also is the business office of the company and show rooms for the carpet department and a large assortment of plainer furniture adapted to the wants of those who are not able to purchase the more

COSTLY AND ELEGANT

Goods which are spread before the eye in rich profusion up in the second floors The second story contains such a vast array of superb furniture such as parlor sets bureaus tables desks wardrobes [illegible] lounges side boards book cases toilet stands chairs [illegible] that it would seem that anything could be wanted to furnish the mansion of the wealthiest which could not here be found and those who contemplate furnishing themselves with all the elegance which the ample means will warrant [illegible] no further than this department of the O F M Co's store

MISCELLANEOUS

The total number of workmen now under employ by the company is about [illegible] fully four fifths of them being skilled artisans [illegible] first class and [illegible] to enable the company to supply the increasing demand for their products

The company in addition to the fine [illegible] which they always keep on hand [illegible] recently [illegible] engravings of the very latest styles of furniture [illegible] from which designs the customer can make his selections as he may desire and have his furniture constructed strictly according to order of any design or fancy his taste may suggest With these facilities the company can furnish any cottage or private dwelling, mansion or hotel or steamboat in the land upon the scale plainly or superbly as the means and taste of their customers shall allow and suggest

A HOME INSTITUTION

As this is strictly a home institution it should by all means be supported by our people Employing so many workmen at high wages they distribute weekly large sums which find their way into the general circulating capital of the country and help to render our State healthful in its commercial relations and prosperous Would that we had more of similar enterprises for up in them would grow up the greatness and wealth of our young State and the contentedness and happiness of our people

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Having collected together his disordered stock of boots and shoes Mr Fleischner has let the store room formerly occupied by Jos Kohn 83 Front street, and announces to sell both west and at any price Such an opportunity to buy is seldom offered and we urge all to call and see what he can do for them He means business as he will need the room to open an assorted new stock See the advertisement

Mamma says little Charley must have a new suit Papa can't stand the prices but mamma suggests that he goes to Beck & Waldman's this evening and select from the new style

SATURDAY MORNING SEPT 19, 1874

THE KING'S WELCOME TO THINGVALLA

By BAYARD TAYLOR

I

With strong foot tread the holy ground
Our snow land's King the lofty hearted
Who from thy royal home hast parted
To greet the hills that guard us round
Our Freedom's scroll thy hand hath lent us
The first of Kings whom God hath sent us
Hail welcome to our country's heart!

II

Land's father! here the Law Mount view!
Behold God's works in all their vastness!
Where awe with Freedom's fairer fastness
With fire-heaved ramparts, waters blue?
Here spring the sagas of our splendor
Here every Iceland heart is tender
God built this altar for his flock

III

Here as in thousand years of old
Sound the same words a voice unended
As when their life and law defended
The spearmen with their shields of gold
The same land yet the same speech giveth
The ancient soul of Freedom liveth
And hither King we welcome thee.

IV

But now are past a thousand years
In the people's memory hoarded
And in God's volume stand recorded
Their strife and trial, woes and fears
Now let the hope of better ages
Be what thy presence King, presages,—
Now let the prosperous time be sure!

V

Our land to thee her thanks shall yield
A thousand years thy name be chanted
Here where the Hill of Law is planted
Twixt fiery fount and lava field
We pray All Father our dependence
To bless thee and thy far descendants
And those they rule a thousand years!

A DYING MAN'S STORY.

FROM NOTES BY HIS PHYSICIAN

When I was young I had a friend whom I loved better than life itself—better than anything but Grace Claussen. He was named Benjamin Redburn, and we had been school mates, and were now together in the great importing house of Claussen Brothers. He was a dashing, splendid, handsome fellow—I quite a Quaker, and no beauty, but we were seldom apart. I introduced him first to Grace Claussen, and I thought he understood that my greatest hope in life was to make her my wife some day. Perhaps he did not. My father and Mr Claussen had been dear friends, and the old gentleman liked me. There was nothing to prevent me from making my way in the world, and offering Grace a home and a portion worthy of her and I thought she liked me, and knew of my love for her. I was glad that she liked Ben, and never a bit jealous when she spoke of his good looks to me. I loved to see them talk together, and hear him say how sweet she was. I fancied he meant to tell me that he was pleased with my choice.

The happiest part of one's life is always that which makes the poorest story. The days passed on very quietly; we were often together—Grace, Ben, Grace's cousin Rose and I. We took walks and went to hear plays together. We sang all the new songs in that pretty music room in the Claussens' house; we talked over wonderful plans, and built magnificent castles in the air. We were always to be together—all four of us. I believed that Grace and I would belong to each other and that Rose would marry Ben. What the others believed I do not know. It seemed to me then that they thought as I did.

All this went on for a long while. Ben made the first break in it. A cousin of his came to our town from Ireland—a fellow who spent money fast, and had a way with him that made me shun his society. He thought more of himself than was quite bearable, or rather, he expressed his egotism more plainly than most people do, and so offended those who had sense enough to veil theirs more closely.

Ben was constantly his companion, and so we fell apart; not that I cared less for him but that I felt that he did not care so much for me. Soon also I found that Grace and Rose were in a measure parted from me. I often found them absent from home, driving or rowing or at some place of amusement with Ben and his cousin.

There was some talk at our place about Ben. Prudent old clerks shook their heads and said that he drank too much. Others asked me whether it were true that Miss Grace Claussen had engaged herself to him. I used to reply that I was not Miss Claussen's confessor, but the question wounded me as the stab of a knife might. I now believed that she had given Ben her love; and, though I did not wonder at it for I knew how superior Ben was in appearance and manner to myself, I had fancied once that Grace liked me best. At last I resolved to ask him the question and if it were true that he had won her heart, to do my best to forget her, or at least to endeavor to hide my heart from her forever.

I never shall forget the moment. I had met him on his way towards her house. He was dressed for some evening entertainment and had a bouquet in his hand that I supposed he intended to present to her.

As I talked to him, he looked down upon it with his black lashes sweeping his crimson cheek and the dimples coming and going at the corners of his mouth. At last I said "Ben, they say you are going to marry Grace. Is it true?"

He looked at me then in a startled sort of way.

"Jack," he cried, "you—you wouldn't mind much if it were so?"

"It is so then?" I asked.

"I hope so," said he. "She hasn't said 'No.'"

"God bless you both," I said, and I meant that from my soul.

"You are the best fellow that ever lived," said Ben.

But I was not. I could not be heartily glad that my dearest friend had won the sweetest girl in the world away from me. I could only promise myself that I would never let either of them know how I suffered. I shook hands with Ben and went away.

I thought then that I must die soon, but I had not learned how much a man can live through. The months passed on drearily enough but I was no more likely to die than I had been. I worked hard and was spoken of as a steady young man who would do well by the old clerks of the store. Of Ben they began to speak doubtfully. He spent too much money, and had been led into wild ways by his Irish cousin they said. But the talk could scarcely have reached the ears of old Mr Claussen or if it had, he gave no credit to it; for when the first snow lay on the ground I heard that Grace and Benjamin were to be married in a fortnight. I thought that I should feel no worse for that news, but I did. The whole room, desks and packages and clerks and all began to swim before me. I heard a noise like the roaring of a sea, and I knew that if I did not get away I should have them telling how Jack Harrison fainted when he heard that Grace Claussen had jilted him. I got to my feet and walked out of the room pretty steadily. I went straight up to the loft where packages were stored, and there sat down on one and knew no more about it.

That was at five o'clock. An hour after I came to myself, and found that I was alone in the building. Every one had gone for the night and the doors were locked and I might have made what noise I should without being heard outside. It was not pleasant, but after all, no harm was done. I could make myself comfortable for the night in Mr Claussen's office where besides the great safe and the pretentious desk all pigeon holes and drawers stood a great arm chair and a very cozy sofa.

Thither I went and on the sofa I threw myself down and soon slept soundly. I dreamt of Grace as I had done every night for a long time. I dreamt that she came to me in tears and kissed me. The touch of her lips in my dreams seemed to awaken me. I started to a sitting posture and listened.

There was a sound below—a little grating sound stealthy yet sharp. In a moment more I heard a door open and shut and a step on the stairs. The truth flashed upon me—burglars had entered the building. I had no weapon with me. I did not know how many were approaching and I had never boasted of any peculiar strength or prowess. I certainly would not have admitted myself to be a coward but I had no thirst for unequal combat. I determined to conceal myself until I had discovered with whom I had to deal, and drew back into the shadow of a projecting window, with my eyes fixed on the door.

At this door in a moment more a figure entered—tall, broad shouldered, erect, gentlemanly. So much the moonlight told me as it fell through the window panes. The figure looked familiar. The next instant gas was lit, and I saw it was Benjamin Redburn. My blood curdled in my veins; my heart stood still. In a state of horrible suspense, for which I have no words, I noticed his movements. I saw him go to Mr Claussen's desk and lift the lock away. I saw him take thence the safe keys and open the safe. I saw him take thence certain rolls of notes and count them with the trembling fingers and frightened eye of a thief unused to his trade, and then transfer them to his pocket. Just in the act my hand came down upon his shoulder.

"Ben," I said, "O Ben! can it be that you are such a man as this?"

He turned and grappled with me, when he saw who had come upon him. He stood quite still.

"How did you come here?" he asked.

"I have been locked in," I said. "O Ben! Ben!"

"Come," he said, trying to laugh, "what does it matter? I'm going to marry Grace next week. The money will be hers. I'm in difficulties, Jack. I owe a thousand pounds—debts of honor and other things. Be a good fellow. Clear out and say nothing. Help yourself to the governor's money. I give you leave. I've only taken enough for the debt."

"Don't insult me," I said. "I'll not be a thief!"

"What are you going to do?" he asked hoarsely. "If you expose me I'll use my pistol! Your life will not be safe if you call for help and I am more than your match in strength, as you perfectly well know."

"You may kill me Ben," I said, "but you will only bring detection on yourself. You deserve that richly but you have been my friend for many years. I've loved you as a brother and Grace is to be your wife. Restore that money to the safe, and I will say nothing of all this. I promise you that Ben."

"By heavens, I can't!" he said. "I must have the money—I must. I'm desperate Jack."

"I shall not let you rob Mr Claussen," I said. "My life is not such a very precious thing. Give me that money."

"I shall not do anything of the kind," he repeated. "I have committed myself thus far and it is too late now to draw back."

"Indeed it is not," said I, earnestly. "I swear, by all that is sacred, not a word of this night's work shall ever pass my lips."

"But I must have the money. I shall be forever ruined in reputation if I do not pay my debts of honor."

"You had better be ruined in the estimation of your fast companions than in your own conscience Ben."

He replied not for a few minutes and I thought that I had gained the victory.

"By heavens I must have this money," he presently said, "let the consequences be what they may."

"You shall not leave this place with those notes," I as determinedly replied.

"We shall see!" he said fiercely, and a gleam of passion shot from his eyes.

I returned his gaze but it was simply of firm decision to do my duty.

"Come Ben, call the better man into your heart now, and return the money."

He had turned a white face towards the door as I spoke, and as I ceased, he suddenly took the roll of notes from his breast crammed them into my hands and fled.

Surprised at this sudden surrender I stood clutching the money in my fingers and starting after him, when another figure darkened the door, and a policeman stood before me. You can guess the rest. I was arrested for burglary.

There was every proof against me. My assertion that I had found a burglar at the safe and taken the money from him, was regarded as an absurd falsehood. I would not betray Benjamin for the sake of our old friendship and, for the sake of his betrothed, I kept the secret. I almost hoped he would not let me suffer for his crime, but he remained silent throughout the trial. I heard of his wedding and of his departure on a bridal tour, and I said "God keep Grace from ever knowing this, and God forgive Benjamin."

After that I went as the law ordained, to live for years an outcast from the society of honest men—seeing only felons and their jailors—knowing myself scorned by the people I most respected—knowing that never while I lived could I be restored to my former place in the world or in the hearts of those who had been my friends.

So it has proved. Yet, if I had made Grace happy I should have felt that all was well.

When I was free once more a great longing urged me to see Benjamin again. I thought that he, at least, knew of my innocence, and of the sacrifice I had made for him. He was a rich man now, living in a handsome country seat some miles from town. Thither I went one evening, and found him in his study. He knew me, but he did not give me his hand. He offered me money. I did not take it. I could not, to save myself from starving. And he told me it was best that a man who had been where I had been should not come to his house again.

"I shall not trouble you," I said. "But you know—you, of all men—why I have borne such ignominy for so many years."

"I know nothing," he said. "You've no right to say I know anything. I deny it. Good night."

So the door closed upon me. I went away through the long green garden. At its gate a woman was standing; she turned toward me. In the moonlight I saw a wan, worn face, but I knew it was what Grace's had faded to.

She called me by name (Jack Harrison), and put her hand upon my arm. There we stood face to face.

"You've come back," she said.

"Not to trouble you," I answered.

Her hand closed on mine.

"Jack," she said, "a woman cannot be a man's wife without learning him by heart. There's a mystery between you two. He fears you; will you tell me why?"

"No," I said—"no Grace Redburn."

She clutched me tighter.

"It's just as well," she said. "I know you were innocent. I know it; I did not then. I've come at the truth somehow. As far as I go you are avenged. I jilted you for a handsome man, and I've found out that his heart is the heart of Satan. O, what a life I've led, Jack! How cruelly I've been insulted by word and deed! My heart went back to its old love long ago Jack. I can tell you that now that our youth is over although you may despise me for it."

I may have been wrong but I could not help it. I took the poor hands so hot and trembling in mine, and kissed Ben Redburn's wife upon her lips, and I said (no matter what) a few wild words best not repeated and went away again never to see her any more. I had not hated Ben for his conduct to me, I had clung to my love through all. But when I learned that he had ill used her, and made her life miserable, I cursed him. I'm trying to feel that I forgive him now—trying hard.

In the commercial cities on the Atlantic seaboard as well as at St Louis Chicago, Cincinnati and all the monetary centers east of the Rocky Mountains almost a plethora of money has existed for some months while in almost all country localities it has been scarce. This condition is also very observable in Europe and the deposits in the joint stock banks of England are forty five millions of dollars more than they were at this time one year ago. There seems to be little disposition on the part of capitalists to invest in European securities as they for obvious reasons prefer those of this country although some severe checks have been given to such operations by the rascally conduct of some American speculators. The San Francisco Commercial Herald says that notably among the reasons which induce them to prefer American investments is the imminent prospect of one of the most general and devastating wars which has ever occurred in Europe. It has been publicly stated that the Premier of England, [illegible] by him proclaimed by Victor Hugo, admitted by Von Moltke and Bismarck, and announced by many prominent journals that the peace of European countries is [illegible] beyond next spring. All the powers are almost fully prepared for the struggle. They occupy hostile attitudes and their positions are those of constant threat. It is not singular, then, that European capitalists should give preference to the securities offered by a country so remote from the scene of prospective conflict and devastation and in no way likely to be more than a deeply interested spectator and the more especially as the interest obtainable here is larger than can be realized on European investments in times of profound peace. The conclusion is therefore logical enough that there will be a large influx of foreign money into our market and when this probability is considered with the fact that our own financial condition is most promising, that the elements of great wealth are already in our possession we have reason to believe that the era of cheap money and a wider general prosperity is near at hand

Grain and Flour Report

The receipts of wheat here so far this week embrace about 25 000 bushels mostly by the railroad lines from up the valley, 140 tons coming down the Columbia. The shipment of wheat to Europe from San Francisco from the 1st to the 10th inst embraced seven cargoes containing 213,?00 centals and from July 1st to September 10 1874 the shipments from San Francisco were 86 vessels, the same number as this year but carrying 58,700 centals more than those this year

In 1873 the shipments from this port to Europe from July 1st to September 11th amounted to 1[illegible]176 bushels in the vessels Hermine Confidence Middlesex Lieut Maury and Otago against 25 000 bushels in the Hermine during the corresponding period this year

While the shipments from this coast have fallen off from those of last year notwithstanding we have had better or as good crops, the New York Produce Exchange of September 4th last shows that the movements of grain on the Atlantic seaboard have materially increased. For instance the visible supply of wheat including the stocks in granary, at the principal points of accumulation, at lake and seaboard ports, in transit by lake, rail and on the New York canals August 29 1874 were 8 119 7[illegible] bushels against 6 13[illegible] bushels at the corresponding date in 1873. For the last week in August this year the said shipments Eastward from Buffalo to all points East were 218 545 bushels against 80 674 in the corresponding week of 1873

The receipts at lake ports during the week ending August 29th 1874 were nearly one million bushels less than in the same week last year, the farther West we come the slower seeming to be the movement. The Western papers state that present prices are so unsatisfactory to farmers that they will hold their wheat rather than sell; that the amount of currency going interiorwards from Chicago and Milwaukee is [illegible] from Chicago not exceeding $19 000 per day while last year it was from $400 000 to $600 000 daily at the beginning of September

The same authority states that the supply of wheat in the United Kingdom during the four weeks ended Aug 15 was 29[illegible] qrs less than the consumption including 671 37[illegible] qrs from imports. The expected supply from cargoes in transit in four weeks, from Aug 22d is 531 000 qrs from which should be deducted whatever may be taken from ports of call for the Continent and to which should be added the imports by steamers from America in four weeks, both of which latter are unknown quantities to be determined by the facts

The consumption during the eight weeks from June 27th to Aug 1[illegible]th inclusive is placed at 1 381 000 qrs against 2 801 382 qrs supply from imports and home deliveries indicating an approximate deficiency in eight weeks of about 580,518 qrs or 4 644 144 bush

The imports of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom for the week ended Aug 15 1874 were Flour 1,8[illegible]7 cwts, wheat 1 0[illegible] 38[illegible] cwts, maize 399 147 cwts, oats 27 7[illegible]4 cwts, barley 60,194 cwts, peas 25 03[illegible] cwts, beans 22 26 cwts, rye 2 9[illegible]6, other grains 70 cwts. Total 2 [illegible]42 [illegible]8 cwts

The exports from the United Kingdom for the week ended Aug 15 1874 were Flour 2 116 cwts, wheat 1 175 cwts, maize, 1 410 cwts, oats, 603 cwts, barley, 169 cwts, peas 85 cwts, beans nil cwts. Total 5 911 cwts

The supply for the week ended Aug 15, 1874 comprising the farmers deliveries of home grown wheat in the Kingdom plus the imports minus the exports, was equal in flour and wheat to 530 87[illegible] qrs against 560 000 qrs minimum and 1[illegible]0 000 qrs maximum weekly consumption indicating a deficiency of supply of 29 413 to 81 413 qrs for the week

The stock in Liverpool Sept 1 1874 is reported by cable was 400 000 qrs, flour 35 000 [illegible] and 250 000 sacks, maize 17 000 qrs

The stock in London Sept 1 1874 was wheat [illegible]0 to 180 000 qrs

Beerbohm's London cable of the 2d inst reports the farmers deliveries of wheat in the Kingdom [illegible] for the week ended Aug 29 1874 at 40 000 to 50 000 qrs and in the Kingdom estimated at 30 000 [illegible] qrs. The imports the same week of foreign wheat 16[illegible] 000 to 170 000 qrs, flour 2[illegible] 000 bbls, maize 135 000 to 140 000 qrs

The supply for the week ended August 29, 1874 including the deliveries of home grown wheat in the Kingdom plus the imports minus the exports was about 40 000 to 587 [illegible] qrs against an average weekly consumption of 160 000 qrs minimum and 1[illegible]0 000 qrs maximum and [illegible] a moderate deficiency in the supply

In the United Kingdom the farmers deliveries [illegible] and the imports are still below the weekly average consumption but they are increasing from 80 000 qrs per week to 160 000 and 1[illegible]0 000 per week. There were in transit for the United Kingdom inclusive of steamer shipments from American Atlantic ports on the 2d inst 1 889 0[illegible]2 bushels of wheat and 1[illegible] barrels of flour. The expected arrivals in the United Kingdom from the cargoes in transit during the four weeks to end Sept 22d is 410 000 qrs or 3 [illegible]8 000 bushels or about 8[illegible]0 000 bushels per week. The market opened on the 28th with receipts [illegible] bushels, exports 67 467, sales 18,000

The United States foreign exports of wheat and flour together, flour being estimated in the ratio of five bushels to the barrel, have been for the crop 1873 4, September 1 to August 31st about ninety million bushels including for Europe alone total [illegible] 69 810 617 bushels of wheat and [illegible] barrels of flour equal to 7[illegible] bushels, or a grand aggregate of exports of wheat and flour during the twelve months ended August 31st of 67 [illegible] bush. The exports to other countries than Europe including wheat and flour for the twelve months ended August 31st 1874 have been at but [illegible] 000 000 bushels

Wheat in Albany.

(Albany being the central wheat shipping point) the following item from the Register of this week are of interest

On Wednesday 10 000 bushels of wheat was sold from the Farmers Warehouse at 66 cents per bushel sacked and delivered on the cars—64 cents per bushel net. This is the first wheat transaction of the season

Last Friday Messrs Morris & Parker received 25 wagon loads of wheat—about 7 000 bushels. On the same day the Farmers Warehouse just opposite Morris & Parker's, their warehouse received 112 wagon loads—a total of 220 wagon loads, 25 of which were four horses. If the other seven wheat depositories in the city done as well on that day between 50 000 and 60 000 bushels of wheat were received and stored here on that day. Morris & Parker have over 60 000 bushels of wheat in store, several thousand bushels of oats, and the stream of wagons still continues, unloading the yellow grain at their doors

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The daily receipts at this point during the past four days have been about 100 tons, but a very considerable portion of it has been placed on storage, the rest being intended for the Alumina Hermine Oriss and Marianne. The first two of these vessels being now loaded, the third about half loaded and the last ready to receive cargo. A large number of teams are now engaged in hauling wheat from Tualatin Plains to this city. Most of this goes in store to be sold at the holders' convenience and pleasure. Each man's grain is kept separate from that of others. When large lots are thus collected better prices can generally be realized than when it is sold in separate parcels. The ruling price here this week has been $1 60 per cental for round lots, but wagon loads have changed hands at 5 cents per cental less.

FLOUR—The market is well supplied, receipts of the product of the new wheat crop being quite liberal. We quote best brands of extra $4 75@5 per bbl, outside and country brands $4 50@4 75, superfine $4. The demand for shipment to San Francisco is dull at present, as the commodity bears about as high price here as there. The shipments to the northward are limited but increasing. The home trade is active as usual.

OATS—The reports of a shorter outcome of the new crop than was expected seems to have the effect to keep prices steady and quotations are still furnished at 42@45c per bushel, the latter figures being only for choice lots. Some extra lots of superfine oats have sold for 50 cents per bushel. The receipts of the week so far have been small for the season

BARLEY—We hear of but few transactions and these mostly of lots to supply the local trade. For best bright lots the ruling rates are $1 15@1 20 per cental while inferior used for feed commands $1 05@1 10. Receipts of the new crop are light.

FEED—The market is in rather better supply, but rates are not changed in important particulars since our last review. We quote bran at $17@18 per ton, shorts $17@18, chops middlings etc $18@20

HAY—The receipts of the past week have been large and have found ready sale at $10@11 per ton for baled timothy $9@10 for loose. Little wild hay at $6@8 per ton

POTATOES—The receipts were very liberal and prices are rather weaker than at last report. Choice varieties are offered and such are worth 50 cents per bushel, but common lots range from 35@40c

ONIONS—Not many large lots are arriving to market but the demand is fairly supplied at $1 25@1 50 per 100 lbs

RIPE FRUITS—A very full supply of all seasonable varieties is at hand and prices are low with a wide range. We quote apples at 40@60 cents per box, pears 40@[illegible], plums [illegible], peaches, $1@1 50

DRIED FRUITS—The market is weaker, apples quotable at 5@5½c per lb. Demand sluggish. Plums unchanged

BACON—Some receipts from the upper Columbia were needed, the supply of hams and sides being light. Prices are likely to remain at present comfortable figures until the beginning of the packing season. Quotations for good lots of country cured are 11@12 cents ₱ lb for sides, [illegible]@10 cents for shoulders and 1[illegible] cents for hams

LARD—The market is still firm at 14@16 cents ₱ lb in kegs and tins

BUTTER—The demand for choice roll is active and an advancing tendency is noticed for such which is quotable at 25@28 cents ₱ lb, good packed, 20@22, common in 12½@15 cents

CHEESE—Best Oregon brands are in fair request at 16@18 cents ₱ lb

EGGS—Receipts are larger and prices are weakening. We quote at 22@25 cents per dozen

CHICKENS—For grown hens, choice lots are quotable at $4@4 50 per dozen, mixed lots and spring chickens $2 75@3 50

BEEF CATTLE—The arrivals now supply the demand amply and are generally in good condition. On foot choice lots of young steers quotable at 5c ₱ lb, common at 4@4½c

MUTTON SHEEP—Several fine droves have reached this market recently for which were paid in the interior $1 50@2 25 ₱ head, quotable here at $2@2 50

DRESSED HOGS—Receipts are light as is the demand, quotable at 7@8c ₱ lb

TALLOW—Quotable at 6@6½c ₱ lb with a fair demand

HIDES—Receipts have fallen off, demand for shipping free at 10@10½c ₱ lb for choice dry, 5@7c for green and green salted. If any blemishes in hides offered reductions on our figures must be made

WOOL—But few transactions are noted. Eastern markets keep well up. [illegible] for fall clip, good quotations nominal at [illegible]

San Francisco Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH]

SAN FRANCISCO Sept 18—Flour—Extra $5@5 25. Wheat—6 000 sks inferior $1 57½, good shipping $1 60. A decline in Liverpool is not relished by holders

Barley—Choice $1 6[illegible], feed $1@1 10

Oats—$1 40@1 60

Potatoes—Wharves have been cleared of choice lots and the range is now 75c@$1 12½, sweets $1 2[illegible]
